

History Collective Committee Minutes 09.06.18

1. The meeting was called to order at 6:30 PM. Present: Maureen "Mo" Richey, Cheryl Revkin, Michael Masterson and Debbie Jigmanian. We welcomed our new member Mo who's offered to handle our social media presence. Cheryl acted as scribe.

2. PUBLIC COMMENT

Unfortunately, we were not able to obtain a spot at this year's Archives Bazaar at USC because they limited the exhibit area. We are 12th on the waiting list and will register early next year.

3. MINUTES

The meeting minutes from our July meeting were approved.

4. NEW BUSINESS

Michael will speak with filmmaker Jane Cantillon and Lisa Palombi from the Silver Lake Library about creating a screening event of Jane's film, "The Other Side," a documentary about the now-closed piano bar on Hyperion and gay life in LA in the 40's and beyond.

Betsy told Michael that the Little Library project to be created by Susan Simpson is being held up because Heather Carson has not as yet been able to provide approved library locations.

Mike Woo's interview has been rescheduled for Sept 22 at 10am at his home. Cheryl, Marco, Debbie and Mo will be present.

Cheryl Gaulke's interview is ready to be uploaded to YouTube.

Mark Simon needs to provide Marco Larsen with blurbs from his interview with John Fleck and Carol Cetrone.

Proposed interviews:

1) Jim Ferraro (Dresden) said he is available all days except Tuesdays and Saturdays. Michael will follow up.

2) Cheryl will pursue Billy Kheel, a local felt artist/crafter who recently appeared on "Making It."

3)) Michael will pursue an interview with Billy Clift, the director of "A long Road to Freedom: The Advocate Celebrates 50 Years" which will have its theatrical release in over 100 theaters on November 2nd.

4) Michael will talk to Jim Ferraro, owner of the Dresden Room, about interviewing him once Marco is available to film it.

4) Betsy will coordinate an interview with Terry Jackson with Michael to be done in the next couple of months.

Adjournment: 7:30 PM

Next meeting: Oct 4, 2018 at the Silver Lake Library Community Room
